RISK FACTORS

The value of the investment can go down as well as up. One way to gauge risk is to look at how much an investment's returns change over time which is called "volatility". Investments with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. Since inception, the Corporation has been generating a steady and consistent return of 8% per annum, paid monthly.

Like most other investments such as stocks and mutual funds, this investment is not guaranteed by CDIC (Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation).

INCOME TAX TREATMENT

You will have to pay income tax on any money you earned from an investment. How much you need to pay depends on the tax rates of where you live and whether or not you hold investment in a registered plan, such as Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP) and Tax-Free Savings Account (TFSA). Keep in mind that if you hold your investment in a non-registered account, distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you choose to receive them in cash or have them reinvested. Distributions are considered as interest income and you will receive a T5 at the end of the year.

MARKET OVERVIEW

Ontario home sales are down but prices are trending up.

In March, home sales in Ontario plummeted to levels not witnessed since the early 2000s. Prospects for a significant drop in mortgage rates appear slim, indicating that sales volumes will likely remain subdued in the foreseeable future, albeit showing some improvement compared to the dismal figures of 2023.

Conversely, home prices are on an upward trajectory, fueled partly by supply and demand dynamics that present conflicting influences. While historically high mortgage rates dampen demand, rapid population growth exerts upward pressure, exacerbated by a shortfall in new construction.

The Bank of Canada is anticipated to maintain its policy rate in April, yet a reduction is expected either in June or September of this year, reflecting efforts to stimulate economic activity amidst the prevailing conditions.
