RISK FACTORS

The value of the investment can go down as well as up. One way to gauge risk is to look at how much an investment's returns change over time which is called "volatility". Investments with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. Since inception, the Corporation has been generating a steady and consistent return of 8% per annum, paid monthly.

Like most other investments such as stocks and mutual funds, this investment is not guaranteed by CDIC (Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation).

INCOME TAX TREATMENT

You will have to pay income tax on any money you earned from an investment. How much you need to pay depends on the tax rates of where you live and whether or not you hold investment in a registered plan, such as Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP) and Tax-Free Savings Account (TFSA). Keep in mind that if you hold your investment in a non-registered account, distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you choose to receive them in cash or have them reinvested. Distributions are considered as interest income and you will receive a T5 at the end of the year.

MARKET OVERVIEW

U.S. Tariffs Create Headwinds and Opportunities in the Canadian Real Estate Market

In June 2025, the Greater Toronto Area remained firmly a buyer's market. Sales rose 8% month-over-month, but were still down 2% from the same month last year. Inventory surged over 30% year-over-year, driving the sales-to-new-listings ratio to 32%, signalling softer demand. Average prices corrected to approximately $1.10M, down about 5% year-over-year, while the benchmark index slipped below $995K.

Adding pressure, recent U.S. tariffs on Canadian steel and aluminum have raised construction and renovation costs, slowed new project starts, and dented buyer confidence. Despite rate cuts totalling 2.25% since mid-2024, many prospective buyers remain cautious amid economic uncertainty.

However, this environment also presents opportunities for potential home buyers at more attractive valuations while preserving upside potential as market sentiment gradually recovers.
