RISK FACTORS

The value of the investment can go down as well as up. One way to gauge risk is to look at how much an investment's returns change over time which is called "volatility". Investments with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time.

Like most other investments such as stocks and mutual funds, this investment is not guaranteed by CDIC (Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation).

INCOME TAX TREATMENT

You will have to pay income tax on any money you earned from an investment. How much you need to pay depends on the tax rates of where you live and whether or not you hold investment in a registered plan, such as Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP) and Tax-Free Savings Account (TFSA). Keep in mind that if you hold your investment in a non-registered account, distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you choose to receive them in cash or have them reinvested. Distributions are considered as interest income and you will receive a T5 at the end of the year.

MARKET OVERVIEW

Toronto Housing Slump Softens with Early Signs of Buyer Return

Toronto-area home prices have declined by about 20% from their peak, reflecting the effects of higher borrowing costs, slower demand, and an uncertain economic backdrop. More recently, however, sales activity has begun to pick up, suggesting the market may be nearing a period of stabilization.

For RESCO, this transition reinforces the value of our disciplined underwriting and risk-aware portfolio management. Over the years, we have steadily shifted toward first-position mortgages with lower loan-to-value ratios, reducing exposure to the more volatile segments of the housing market. While some lenders pursued higher yields during the boom years, RESCO prioritized capital preservation and long-term stability.

As the market adjusts, our approach positions us to lend selectively and responsibly to qualified borrowers, protecting investor capital while capturing opportunities that align with our prudent risk standards. We remain confident that resilience and discipline today will translate into sustainable growth tomorrow.

ABOUT THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Corporation is led by a group of financial professionals who each bring experience and expertise in their respective fields such as banking, mortgage lending, real estate development, risk management and portfolio management.
