MARKET OVERVIEW

GTA Real Estate Market Continues to Tighten

Spring sales have been stronger than last year, reflecting improved affordability from lower prices and borrowing costs. May GTA home sales were up 10% month-over-month from April. While home sales posted a healthy increase, inventory remains under pressure as current inventory is being absorbed and new listings were down 2.1% in May. MLS reported an 18.9% decrease in new listings year-over-year for May 2026. As supply continues to tighten along with pent-up demand, home prices are expected to start increasing in the second half of 2026. New housing starts continue to pullback in May with a 6% month-to-month decline from April, which further tightens future supply.

Sales forecast continue to improve into the second half of 2026 with easing geopolitical tensions and further trade certainty with upcoming US trade negotiations.
